5. Board independence

An independent director is a non-executive director who is not a member of management and who is free of any business or other relationship that could materially interfere with, or could reasonably be perceived to materially interfere with, the independent exercise of their judgment. The independent directors accordingly assist in ensuring that the Board and the Company operate in the best interest of the Company and shareholders as a whole.

The assessment of whether each director is independent is a matter for the Board. Each non-executive director is required to disclose to the Board any interest or relationship which may be relevant to that assessment.

In considering whether a director is independent, the Board is to have regard to:

- the definition of independence set out in Appendix L;
- any information, facts or circumstances that the Board considers relevant; and
- such materiality thresholds, standards or guidelines that the Board may adopt from time to time.

In general, a former Managing Director will not qualify as an independent director unless there has been a period of at least three years between ceasing employment with the Company and serving on the Board.

If a director is or becomes aware of any information, facts or circumstances which will or may affect that director's independence, the director must immediately disclose all relevant details in writing to the Chairman.

A change in a director's independent status must be disclosed and explained to the market in a timely fashion.

The Board will regularly assess the independence of each director in light of disclosures made by directors to ensure that the Board continues to comprise a majority of independent non-executive directors and the Company meets developing best practice standards that comply with the ASX Principles.

Each director may, with the prior written approval of the Chairman, obtain independent professional advice to assist the director in the proper exercise of his / her powers and his / her discharge of duties as a director or as a member of a Committee. 7. Board Committees

The Board has established the following Committees to assist the Board in the execution of its responsibilities:

- the Audit and Risk Committee; and

The charters of the Audit and Risk Committee and the Nomination and Remuneration Committee are set out in Appendix B and Appendix C (respectively) to this Board Charter. The Committees are required to make recommendations to the Board but do not have executive power to bind the Company. The Board is responsible for the exercise of power by the Committees unless:

- the Board believes on reasonable grounds, in good faith and after making proper inquiry if the circumstances indicate the need for inquiry, that the Committee is reliable and competent in relation to the power delegated.

To the extent required by any laws or securities market regulator, or otherwise than as is expressly acknowledged with sound and cogent reason given, the Committees are to be composed of a majority of independent directors with the necessary skills and experience. The Committees meet as necessary in the terms of their charter. Relevant business addressed at Committee meetings is summarised and reported (as soon as reasonably practicable) to the Board at its next meeting after the Committee meeting.

- determining the Company's recruitment, retention and termination policies and procedures for senior executives;

- The Nomination and Remuneration Committee is responsible for identifying and nominating for the approval of the Board all candidates to fill Board vacancies as and when they arise.

- When considering new candidates for nomination or appointment to the Board or the re-election of incumbent directors, the Nomination and Remuneration Committee must take into account:

- The Committee will consider whether or not it is appropriate to seek the external advice of search consultants to identify individuals with the skills and experience required by the Board and/or use open advertising in respect of the position.
 - Prior to appointment, preferred candidates:
 - are required to be available to meet with members of the Board;
 - must disclose the nature and extent of other appointments and activities; and
 - must demonstrate that they understand what is expected of them and confirm that they are willing to make the necessary commitments and will have sufficient time to discharge their responsibilities.
 - The Committee must ensure that the re-appointment of directors is not an automatic process.
 - The Committee should ensure that, on appointment, all directors receive a formal letter of appointment or service agreement which clearly sets out what is expected of them in terms of time commitment, Committee membership and involvement outside board meetings.

7. Notices of meeting involving the election or re-election of directors

Notices of meeting for meetings involving the election or re-election of directors will set out all material information in the Company's possession relevant to a decision on whether or not to elect or re-elect a director. This will include:

- biographical details, including their relevant qualifications and experience and the skills they bring to the Board;
- details of any other material directorships currently held by the candidate;
- in the case of a candidate standing for election as a director for the first time:
 - any material adverse information revealed by the checks the Company has conducted on the candidate;

The purpose of this policy is to:

- provide a brief and high level summary of the law on insider trading;
- set out the restrictions on dealing in the Company's securities; and
- assist in maintaining market confidence in the integrity of dealings in the Company's securities.

Contravention of this policy will be regarded as a serious matter by the Company and may also give rise to criminal or civil actions.

2. Definitions

In this policy, the following definitions apply:

- Designated Persons means:
 - the directors of the Company (including the Managing Director), and those other persons having authority and responsibility for planning, directing and controlling the activities of the Company, directly or indirectly, including the CFO, Managing Director, Company Secretary and those persons who are members of the senior management team and the finance team who may be expected to have access to non-public price sensitive information on a regular basis; and
 - any person who is notified in writing by the Board or the Company Secretary to be a Designated Person for the purposes of this policy from time to time (e.g. persons involved in a special price sensitive project);
- Relevant Approver means:
 - if the Designated Person is a director of the Company (other than the Chairman of the Board), the Chairman of the Board;

- Closed Period means:
 - the period between the end of the Company's financial year (30 June) and the announcement of the Company's full year results to ASX;
 - the period between the end of the Company's half year (31 December) and the announcement of the Company's half year results to ASX; and
 - any other period the Chairman of the Board may declare from time to time.

3. Application

This policy applies to:

- Designated Persons; and
- all other employees,

of the Company.

This policy applies to all securities which may be issued by the Company, such as shares and options.

This policy extends to all securities owned or controlled by a person covered by the policy, whether those securities are held in the name of that person, in a company, through a trust, by a family member, by a friend or in some other entity or arrangement. Persons covered by this policy must inform their brokers or financial advisers who have discretion to trade on their behalf that they are restricted from trading securities under this policy.

4. Policy statements

This policy:

- prohibits insider trading in the Company's securities;
- prohibits short-term or speculative dealing in the Company's securities;
- requires Designated Persons to obtain prior written approval before dealing in the Company's securities;

- prohibits Designated Persons from obtaining prior written approval to deal in the Company's securities during a Prohibited Period, in the absence of exceptional circumstances;
- prohibits Designated Persons participating in an equity-based executive incentive plan, from hedging the value of any unvested entitlement in the Company's securities; and
- requires Designated Persons to obtain prior written approval if they enter into a margin lending or other security arrangement affecting the Company's securities.

5. Insider trading prohibition

5.1 Prohibition

Insider trading is a serious offence under the Corporations Act.

If you have inside information you must not:

- deal in securities; or
- communicate the inside information to anyone else.

This prohibition is an overriding obligation and applies despite anything else in this policy (including whether the dealing or communication of inside information occurs outside a Prohibited Period) and regardless of how you learned the inside information.

Insider trading is a criminal offence attracting significant fines and/or imprisonment. Alternatively, a civil penalty may be imposed for an individual. In both cases the offender may also be ordered to pay compensation to anyone who suffered loss as a result of the insider trading.

Definitions of "dealing in securities" and "inside information" are set out below.

Communicating inside information includes passing it on to another person, such as a family member, friend, associate, colleague, broker, financial planner, investment adviser, family company or family trust.

5.2 Dealing in securities

For the purposes of this policy, dealing in securities includes:

- trading in securities, for example:
 - subscribing for, buying or selling securities;
 - entering into a derivative in relation to securities;
 - using securities as a security or granting any encumbrance over securities;

- engaging in any other transaction involving a beneficial interest in securities or a change in the beneficial ownership of securities; or
- entering into an agreement to do any of those things; and
- procuring, inciting, inducing or encouraging another person (such as a family member, friend, associate, colleague, broker, financial planner, investment adviser, family company or family trust) to trade in securities.

5.3 Inside information

Under the Corporations Act, a person is prohibited from dealing in securities where:

- the person possesses information which is not generally available and, if the information were generally available, a reasonable person would expect it to have a material effect on the price or value of particular securities (inside information); and
- the person knows, or ought reasonably to know, that the information is not generally available and, if it were generally available, a reasonable person would expect it to have a material effect on the price or value of those securities.

Information has a material effect on the price or value of securities if, and only if, a reasonable person would expect that information to, or to be likely to, influence persons who commonly invest in securities in deciding whether or not to subscribe for, buy or sell those securities.

It does not matter how a person comes to have the inside information - for example whether a person learns it in the course of carrying out their responsibilities, in passing in the corridor, in the lift or at a social occasion.

The financial impact of the information is important, but strategic and other implications can be equally important in determining what amounts to inside information. The definition of "information" is broad enough to include rumours, matters of supposition, intentions of a person (including the intentions of the Company) and information which is not definite enough to warrant public disclosure.

5.4 Examples of inside information

The following list is illustrative only. Inside information about the Company could include:

- information relating to the Company's operations and/or financial results;
- a possible material sale or acquisition of assets by the Company;
- the successful tender for a material contract;
- the entry into or termination of a material contract;
- a possible change in the Company's capital structure;

- entry into a major borrowing;
- an event which could have a material impact (either positively or negatively) on profits;
- any possible claim against the Company or other unexpected liability; and
- any information required to be disclosed to ASX under its continuous disclosure rules.

5.5 Securities of other companies

The prohibition on insider trading is not restricted to information affecting the Company's securities. Accordingly, if a person possesses inside information in relation to securities of another company or entity, that person must not deal in those securities.

5.6 Participation in Employee Share Plans

This policy does not restrict participation in the Company's employee share and equity incentive plans but does apply in respect of any subsequent dealing in the Company's securities to which an employee becomes entitled under those plans.

5.7 Other obligations to the Company with respect to Information

In addition to the insider trading and other restrictions in this policy, Company employees also owe a duty of confidentiality to the Company. Employees must not reveal any confidential information of the Company, use that information in any way which may injure or cause loss to the Company or use that information to gain an advantage for themselves or others.

Under the Corporations Act, a breach of these duties may result in:

- liability for a civil penalty;
- criminal liability if recklessness or dishonesty is involved; and/or
- liability to compensate the Company for any damage it suffers as a result of the disclosure.

6. Additional trading restrictions

6.1 Dealings by employees who are not Designated Persons

Subject to the rules of any applicable equity-based plan, if an employee is not a Designated Person:

- they may deal in the Company's securities at any time provided they do not have inside information and are not involved in short term or speculative dealing;

- they should review this policy and any information they do have prior to dealing; and
- they are not required to notify the Company if they intend to deal in Company securities or after they have dealt in such securities.

6.2 Dealings by Designated Persons

- (a) If an employee is a Designated Person, they must:
 - (i) obtain the prior written approval from the Relevant Approver for any proposed dealing in the Company's securities; and
 - (ii) not engage in the proposed dealing until the Relevant Approver has (subject to paragraph 6.3(b)) given prior written approval in relation to that dealing.
- (b) Any written approval will be valid for 7 days from the date it is given, meaning the relevant dealing can only occur during that period (subject to the other requirements of this policy).
- (c) A Designated Person must immediately notify the Company Secretary of sufficient details of the outcome of any dealing to enable the Company to file the relevant notices in accordance with the ASX Listing Rules within 5 business days of the dealing.
- (d) Individuals remain responsible for their own investment decisions and their compliance with the law and this policy. As noted above, the key point is ensuring that an employee is not in possession of any inside information at the point in time at which he or she deals in any securities.
- (e) The trading restrictions contained in paragraphs 6.2(a) to 6.2(c) of this policy do not limit any other obligations of Designated Persons prescribed by this policy.

6.3 Dealings during Prohibited Periods

- (a) There are certain periods during the year, during which Designated Persons cannot deal in the Company's securities (other than in exceptional circumstances), given the heightened risk of actual or perceived insider trading. These periods are known as Prohibited Periods.
- (b) Where a proposed dealing will occur during a Prohibited Period, the Relevant Approver may only give the Designated Person prior written approval to deal in the Company's securities if:
 - (i) the Designated Person advises the Relevant Approver in writing of their request to deal in the Company's securities and the reasons for needing to do so during a Prohibited Period;

- (ii) the Designated Person confirms in writing that they are not in possession of inside information; and
 - (iii) the Relevant Approver is satisfied that the Designated Person is in severe financial difficulty or there are other exceptional circumstances.
- (c) A person may be in severe financial difficulty if they have a pressing financial commitment that cannot be satisfied other than by selling the Company's securities. Severe financial difficulty would not normally include a liability to pay tax unless the person has no other means of satisfying the liability. A person's need to satisfy a tax liability arising from equity incentives connected with the Company would not normally be considered an exceptional circumstance.
- (d) Exceptional circumstances would exist if:
- (i) the Designated Person was required by a court order, or there were court enforceable undertakings (eg in a bona fide family settlement) or some other overriding legal or regulatory requirement, to deal in the Company's securities; or
 - (ii) the Board, in its discretion, deems such circumstances to be exceptional.

6.4 Dealings by connected persons

Designated Persons should follow the requirements set out in paragraphs 6.2(a) to 6.2(c) of this policy if they are aware that their spouse, partner, child or other immediate family member, or trust or other entity controlled by the Designated Person (or an investment adviser on behalf of the Designated Person or any of the above persons or entities), intends to deal in the Company's securities.

6.5 Exemptions from trading restrictions

The trading restrictions imposed on Designated Persons under this policy (aside from the insider trading restrictions) do not apply in the following circumstances:

- trading results in no change in beneficial interest in the securities (such as transfers of securities of the Company already held into a superannuation fund or other saving scheme in which the Designated Person is a beneficiary);
- an investment in, or trading in units of, a fund or other scheme (other than a scheme only investing in the securities of the Company) where the assets of the fund or other scheme are invested at the discretion of a third party;
- where the Designated Person is a trustee, trading in the securities of the Company by that trust provided the Designated Person is not a beneficiary of the trust and any decision to trade during a prohibited period is taken by the other trustees or by the investment managers independently of the Designated Person;

- undertakings to accept, or the acceptance of, a takeover offer;
- trading under an offer or invitation made to all or most of the Company's security holders, such as, a rights issue, a security purchase plan, a dividend or distribution reinvestment plan and an equal access buy-back, where the plan that determines the timing and structure of the offer has been approved by the Board. This includes decisions relating to whether or not to take up the entitlements and the sale of entitlements required to provide for the take up of the balance of entitlements under a renounceable pro rata issue;
- a disposal of the Company's securities that is the result of a secured lender exercising their rights, for example, under a margin lending arrangement, subject to the Designated Person having received prior written clearance for the original financing arrangement as set out in paragraph 6.6 of this policy; and
- trading under a non-discretionary trading plan for which prior written clearance has been provided in accordance with the procedures set out in this policy and where:
 - the Designated Person did not enter into the plan or amend the plan during a Prohibited Period; and
 - the trading plan does not permit the Designated Person to exercise any influence or discretion over how, when or whether to trade.

A Designated Person must not cancel a trading plan unless clearance has first been given in accordance with paragraphs 6.2(a) to 6.2(c) of this policy for its cancellation.

6.6 Margin lending restrictions

Designated Persons must obtain the prior written approval of the Relevant Approver in accordance with paragraphs 6.2(a) to 6.2(c) of this policy if they intend to enter into a margin lending or other security arrangements affecting the Company's securities.

6.7 Short term or speculative dealing

Speculating in short-term fluctuations in the Company's securities does not promote shareholder or market confidence in the integrity of the Company.

All employees must not engage, directly or indirectly, in short-term or speculative dealing in the Company's securities.

6.8 Hedging unvested entitlements

Entitlements under the Company's equity based incentive plans are subject to the satisfaction of various time and/or performance hurdles to ensure alignment of employee rewards with Company objectives and performance. Transactions which "hedge" the value of entitlements could distort the proper functioning of these hurdles and reduce the intended alignment with shareholder interests.

Designated Persons participating in an equity-based executive incentive plan, are prohibited from entering into any transaction which would have the effect of hedging or otherwise transferring to any other person the risk of any fluctuation in the value of any unvested entitlement in Company securities.

These requirements also apply to dealings in financial products issued by third parties in relation to the Company's securities which operate to limit the economic risk of a vested holding in the Company's securities.

7. Disclosure to ASX

The ASX Listing Rules requires this policy to be disclosed to ASX. Where the Company makes a material change to this policy, the amended policy must be provided to ASX within 5 business days of the material changes taking effect.

In addition, if a change to a notifiable interest of a company's director occurs during a Closed Period, the company must tell ASX (in its Appendix 3Y filing) that this is the case, whether prior written clearance for the relevant dealing was provided and the date of such clearance.

8. Compliance is mandatory

Strict compliance with this policy is mandatory for all Company personnel covered by this policy.

9. Breach of this policy

Breaches of this policy may damage the Company's reputation in the investment community and undermine confidence in the market for the Company's securities. Accordingly, breaches will be taken very seriously by the Company and will be subject to disciplinary action, including possible termination of a person's employment or appointment.

In addition, breaches of this policy may also amount to a contravention of the Corporations Act which may result in criminal or civil liability.

If considered appropriate, the manager or Chairman must immediately contact the Company Secretary to advise the details of the matter.
- The Company Secretary must consider each matter so raised as potentially requiring disclosure to ASX. The Company Secretary may, where appropriate, seek external legal advice on whether a particular matter requires disclosure to ASX.
- The Company Secretary will, where appropriate, discuss matters of continuous disclosure with the Chairman and shall provide the Chairman with a draft copy of the proposed announcement. Except for announcements of a procedural nature, the Chairman shall circulate the proposed announcement to the Board, by any means available, and allow the Board an opportunity to discuss and agree the proposed announcement before its release. - The Company will generally not make any comment on the content of any external analyst reports. The Company is not responsible for and does not endorse external analyst reports that contain forecasts or commentary on the Company.
- To protect against inadvertent disclosure of price sensitive information, the Company imposes communication black-out periods for financial information and information which may impact on financial information between the end of financial reporting periods (30 June and 31 December) and the announcement of results to the market. Any briefings or media contact in this period are the subject of specific announcements to ASX.
- Comments on expected earnings are confined to the Company's financial reports or forecasts, but any material change in a disclosed expectation is disclosed immediately via ASX. In reviewing the content of analysts' reports and profit forecasts, the Company will correct factual inaccuracies or historical matters. The Company will not provide price sensitive information or earnings forecast guidance unless it has already been disclosed to the market via ASX.
- The Company may, from time to time, request a trading halt from ASX to prevent trading in the Company's shares by an inefficient and uninformed market.

All employees have a responsibility to adhere to this Code and ensure that no breaches occur. An employee who breaches the Code may face disciplinary action up to and including dismissal. If, after enquiry, the Company is satisfied that a breach of the Code has occurred, the nature of the disciplinary action will be determined by the relevant management in consultation with other appropriate sources of advice, including the Company's Human Resources Department. The nature of the disciplinary action will depend on the seriousness of the breach and other relevant circumstances.

If an employee suspects that a breach of the Code has or will occur, he or she must immediately report that breach - see section below headed "Reporting of Breaches".

If employees are in any doubt about the Code or its application, they should immediately seek advice from their relevant business unit manager or the Company's Human Resources Department.

8.3 Reporting of breaches

All reports will be acted upon and kept confidential. No employee will be disadvantaged or prejudiced if he or she reports in good faith a suspected breach of a law, regulation or the Code.

The Company has appointed officers who are responsible for investigating reported breaches (Protected Disclosure Officers). The Protected Disclosure Officers are the people holding the following positions:

- Managing Director;
- CFO; and
- Company Secretary.

In the interests of confidentiality and efficiency, reports should where possible be made directly to a Protected Disclosure Officer. However, employees may also make reports to the appropriate business or division manager. Subject to the special confidentiality restrictions applying to reports involving potential Corporations Act breaches (see section below headed “Whistleblower Protection”), reports will be referred under conditions of confidentiality to a Protected Disclosure Officer for investigation.

9. Breaches or suspected breaches of the Corporations Act - Whistleblower protection

The Corporations Act gives special protection to disclosures about Corporations Act breaches, as long as certain conditions are met. These conditions are:

- the person making the report is an officer or employee of the Company, a contractor or an employee of a contractor;
- the report is made to:
 - a Protected Disclosure Officer;
 - a director, officer or senior manager of the Company;
 - the external auditor or an audit team member; or
 - ASIC.
- the person making the disclosure gives their name before making the report (i.e. the report is not anonymous); and
- the report is made in good faith, and the maker has reasonable grounds to suspect that there has been a breach of the Corporations Act by the Company or any of its officers or employees.

Briefly, the protections given by the Corporations Act when these conditions are met are:

- the reporting person cannot be subject to legal liability for making the report.
- anyone who victimises or threatens the person making the report is guilty of an offence and may be liable for damages; and
- the person receiving the report commits an offence if they disclose the substance of the report or the maker's identity, without the maker's consent, to anyone except ASIC, the Australian Federal Police or the Australian Prudential Regulatory Authority.

The Company is committed to full compliance with these protective provisions. Consequently, when a report involving a possible Corporations Act breach is made to anyone other than a Protected Disclosure Officer, the person making the report will be asked to give consent for disclosure of the report to a Protected Disclosure Officer who can carry out an investigation – if necessary, with external legal assistance on a confidential basis. Even where reports involving possible Corporations Act breaches are made directly to Protected Disclosure Officers, consent may be sought to permit confidential disclosure to external legal advisers for the purposes of investigation and advice.
